GREENWELL-MATSON NUPTIALS.

Quite the most interesting wedding of the week was that of Wednesday evening, at 6 o'clock, when Miss Rae Greenwell became the wife of Jack F. Matson, Rev. J. E. Carver, using the old English ceremony, saying the words which made them one. The bride, who is unusually attractive and accomplished, possesses all those attributes which go to make an ideal wife. She is the daughter of Mrs. Little Greenwell and is quite popular among her large circle of friends. The bride was attended by Miss June Rushea, who was gown in a beautiful tan crepe de chine, made en princess. The bride's gown, which was indeed a thing of beauty, was fashioned from pearl gray cloth, cut en cascade and beautifully garnished in pearl trimmings. She carried a chaste bouquet of white roses. The groom's attendant was A. Richter. The wedding, which was solemnized in the presence of only a few invited guests, was followed by a large reception for more than a hundred. The dining room where refreshments were served being sweet and gay with the spicy fragrance of Lawson and white carnations, which were held in crystal candelas on side-board, mantel and screens, and forming a charming centerpiece for the table from which a buffet luncheon was served. During the evening some charming musical numbers were rendered, and the handsome gifts inspected. The punch bowl was presided over by Miss Matson. Among the substantial gifts to Mr. and Mrs. Matson were a handsome carriage the gift of the bride's mother.

HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

The Historical Club was the guests of Mrs. Edward Bichel of 718 25th street, last Saturday, when a most interesting and profitable meeting was held.

The subject, "Some Needed Reforms," gave rise to much animated discussion and a determination on the part of the members to wake up and take a hand in the battle now waging for the betterment of their city and their fellow creatures.

Mrs. J. S. Gordon was chairman for the day and to her, especially, is due thanks of the club.

The clear statements, the startling statistics, the sorrowful earnestness with which she portrayed some of the ills, temptations and snares that beset our young people, the zeal with which she urged all present to use their best endeavors to ameliorate such conditions, have won some of the points of her excellent address. Very special attention was called to some points vital to the health and morals of our youth and therefore to our nation.

Among other things touched upon was a plea for the abolition of the dance hall, or at least, a vigorous censorship of the same. Dress reform for our school girls. A more general attendance at all school parties by parents or chaperones was strongly urged as of benefit to both girls and boys, with a word about temperance, drugs, etc. In fact, every one began to stir up her war paint most vigorously but it remains to be seen how many will have the courage to sound the war whoop!

LECTURE CARS ARE COMING TO OGDEN

Something new in the interests of the fruit growers and potato raisers along the line of the Oregon Short Line is about to be undertaken by the railroad company, being nothing less than the installation of a demonstration or lecturing train which will pass through the counties of northern Utah and southern Idaho.

The train will be a special, consisting of a baggage car, two large composite coaches and a large day coach, carrying implements for the demonstration and potato culture and orchard heating, and on these two subjects lectures will be delivered by experts secured for the purpose by the railroad company.

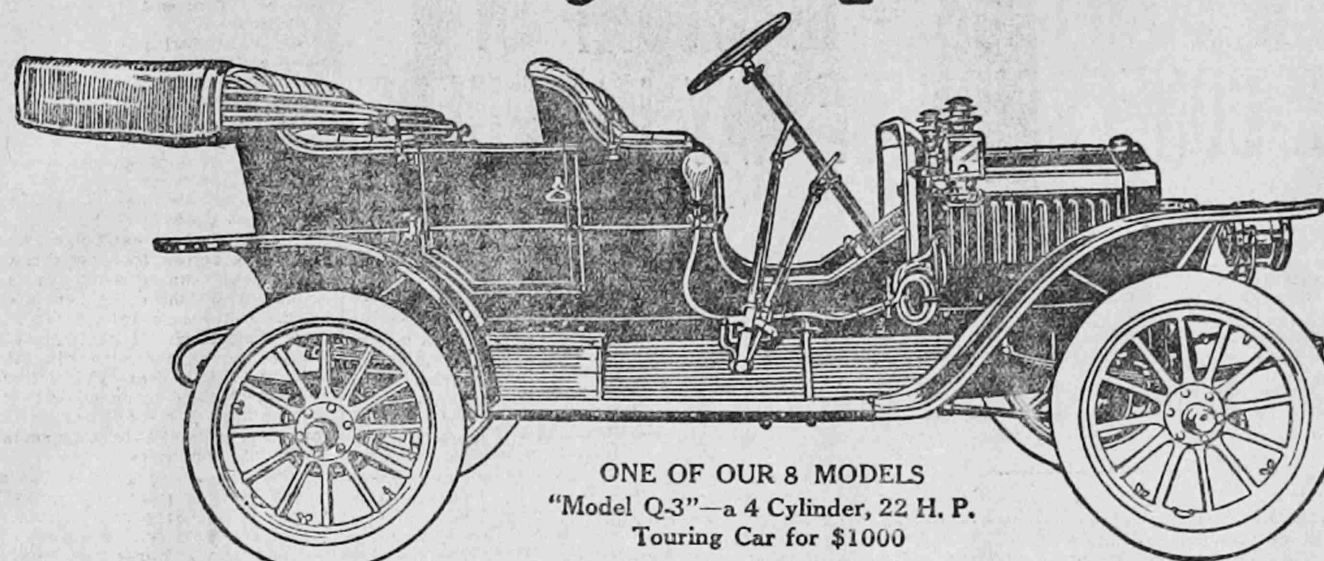

Illustrated by implements and material used in actual work, with the heating or snudge pots for demonstration purposes, Eugene H. Grubb, the orchard expert from Carbondale, Colo., will deliver daily lectures on the subject of orchard heating, or the protection of fruit buds from spring frost by artificial heat. He will give the results of experiments made by him in years past in Grand Valley, Colo., and show the horticulturists how they may preserve their fruit even in the colder sections of the country.

Other lecturers will be Joseph E. Wing, editor of the Breeder's Gazette of Chicago, and W. S. Gifford, a graduate of the agricultural college of Wisconsin and director of the agricultural department of the North Side Twin Falls Land & Water Company. The whole subject of potato culture, which has assumed such gratifying proportions throughout northern Utah and Idaho, will be fully dealt with by these experts, their talks being illustrated and amplified by means of implements, samples and demonstrations of methods.

The train will leave Salt Lake City on Thursday morning, Jan. 20. Two stops will be made in Davis county, where lectures will be delivered. Lectures will be delivered at Ogden, Idaho, at Pocatello, Idaho, at Layton, Idaho, at Preston, Idaho, at Richmond, Logan, Hyrum and Trenton, in Utah, when the train will proceed to Idaho, where stops and lectures will be made at all the principal points on the Short Line.

The total cost of the special train, expert lecturers, equipment, etc., is borne by the passenger department of the Oregon Short Line, and has been arranged by D. E. Burley, general passenger agent. The train will be on the road nearly a month, according to plans of the present itinerary. The lecture course has been prepared especially for the benefit of the farmers, ranchers and fruit growers of the country through which the Short Line passes, and contains the latest scientific developments in the way of fruit protection and potato culture known. Lectures will be given daily, and for the most part in the cars attached to the special train. It has been arranged that one lecture will be carried on in one of the cars, and another in had been informed by Chug Wilson, a "cowpuncher who stands in" with Steve. Every member of the company was properly clothed for their respective roles and the interpretations are all that could be desired. The characters of Steve Gordon and Chug Wilson, while true to life in the west for many years in the past as well as will be in the future, are entirely different from any of the "heavy" characters presented in "The Virginian," "Texas," "Arizona" or plays of the west. The portrayal of Steve by Frank B. Fanning is excellent. He gets all there is out of the part and more, and then adds a few mannerisms, which makes the audience really see the man, who, while he is bad, at heart, has some sense of honor for a woman.

As Chug Wilson, the "cowpuncher who stands in," Dean Selah does not have very much to do, but what he does "do" and say is with the proper effect and feeling. His few lines in the third act were delivered with good effect and much appreciated. Like Fanning, Selah has a splendid conception of the role he portrays, and has a brilliant future before him. Cecil Kirke, as Bob Ricketts, is very good. Burt C. Crowell, as Willie Settle, the detective; Frank Patton, as Hank Jones, and Anna Gardiner, as Bossy Jones, give pleasing interpretations and furnish a great amount of wholesome comedy. George Thompson, as Dave Dalby, was typical of the western rancher. Cora Bennett, as Mrs. Dalby; Bessie Fisher, as Jennie Summers, the school teacher, and J. Wellington Hartman as Spotty, were very acceptable.

The scenic effects were good, particularly in the last act, which was presented with thrilling effect, showing the "bold, bad man" with the school teacher as captive in a rocky pass awaiting the approach of the posse.

The orchestra, under Prof. Fild's direction, rendered a number of pleasing selections. E. T. S.

DEAF BOYS BEAT THE LATE CHAMPION

Despite the appearance of one-sidedness which the score would apparently indicate, the first league game of the northern basketball league, which was played at Ogden yesterday, proved intensely interesting to a fairly large number of spectators.

The Ogden team carried off the victory by a score of 51 to 24, the sensational playing of the local aggregation and the wonderful team development proving a distinct surprise to the visitors. The Granite High School carried off last year's league championship.

Hamilton and Ashton played forward, Mackay and Miller guard, and Hunter center for the visitors. The Ogden team lined up with Savage and Farley forward, White and Keeley guards, and Freese center.
